

Challenges Facing the New Minister in Higher Education

WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE THE MINISTER TO HEAR?

WE INVITE YOU TO TAKE THIS OPPORTUNITY TO SPEAK YOUR MIND AND EXPRESS YOUR VIEWS.

Whenever a new Minister comes to office, he or she is faced with a plethora of competing interests. New Ministers seldom have the opportunity, particularly during the early part of their tenure, to hear informed voices in discussion or debate with each other. The aim of this project will be to put together a diverse group of established intellectuals who will identify and debate key issues confronting higher education at this moment.

CHET has organised a seminar with Minister Pandor to take place on 27 September. (a copy of the proposal can be read at <http://www.chet.org.za/papers/Proposal.pdf>). As part of the seminar we would like you to send us your response telling us what you think are the key issues the Minister should address. Please restrict your response to around 500 words.

We have commissioned Trish Gibbon to synthesise the responses and present them at the seminar. Summaries of the responses will be handed to the Minister in a file of readings.

A report on the seminar will be sent to everybody after the meeting.
