

Developing Performance Indicators for higher education

A South African
case study

by Ian Bunting
& Nico Cloete

November 2004

CHET

© 2004 Centre for Higher Education Transformation (CHET)

CHET
Private Bag X8
Rondebosch
Cape Town
South Africa
www.chet.org.za

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by electronic or mechanical means, including any information storage and retrieval system, without prior permission in writing from the publishers.

ISBN 1-920051-04-X

Produced by comPress
www.compress.co.za

Printed and bound by Creda Communications

CONTENTS

ABOUT THE AUTHORS	v
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	vi
CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION	1
Policy and performance	1
Structure of the report	5
CHAPTER 2: INTERNATIONAL PERSPECTIVES ON PERFORMANCE INDICATORS	7
Maurice Kogan: The development and use of performance indicators and performance measurement in the UK	7
Frans Kaiser: The role of indicators and benchmarks in the European Union	16
Performance indicator developments in six African countries	32
Summary of responses to international presentations	34
CHAPTER 3: CHET 2000: HIGHER EDUCATION TRANSFORMATION	36
Transformation goals for higher education in South Africa	36
Size and shape of the higher education system	38
Student outputs of the higher education system	42
Staff equity in the higher education system	44
Responsiveness to social interests and needs	47
Co-operation and partnerships in governance	51
Funding	51
Methodological assumptions of CHET 2000	54
Some problems with the CHET 2000 methodology	54

CHAPTER 4: THE NATIONAL WORKING GROUP: DETERMINING "FITNESS-FOR-PURPOSE"	59
Restructuring the South African higher education system	59
Expected features, indicators and benchmarks	61
Application of indicators and benchmarks	65
Objections to the National Working Group's model of indicators and benchmarks	71
CHAPTER 5: CHET 2003: "WELL-FUNCTIONING" HIGHER EDUCATION INSTITUTIONS	73
Evaluating South African higher education institutions	73
Objections to the CHET 2003 model at January 2004 seminar	80
CHAPTER 6: CHET 2004a: POLICY TARGETS AND HIGHER EDUCATION PERFORMANCE	82
Changes to the CHET 2003 model	82
CHET 2004a: Indicators and targets for the South African higher education system	83
CHET 2004a: Indicators and targets for South African higher education institutions	88
Responses to CHET 2004a at March 2004 seminar	93
CHAPTER 7: CHET 2004b: PROPOSALS FOR FURTHER DISCUSSION	98
A further proposal for discussion	98
A revised set of indicators for the South African higher education system	100
A revised set of indicators for South African higher education institutions	106
CHAPTER 8: THE WAY FORWARD	112
Redefining the role of the state	112
The African Performance Indicator Project	114
REFERENCES	116
DIRECTORY OF PARTICIPANTS	118

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Ian Bunting was full-time Dean of Social Science at the University of Cape Town from 1987 to 1998. In 1999 he was seconded by the University to to his current position in the Higher Education Branch of the national Department of Education, where his responsibilities include work on institutional and systemic planning, the implementation of a new higher education funding framework, and the higher education management information system.

Nico Cloete is the Director of the Centre for Higher Education Transformation (CHET) and an honorary research fellow, University of Cape Town. For more information, see <http://www.chet.org.za>.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Thanks are due to the Ford Foundation, and particularly to Ahmed Bawa who was with the Foundation at the time. Bawa made a significant intellectual contribution to the project. Appreciation is due to Maurice Kogan and Frans Kaiser who contributed to one of the chapters and came to South Africa to participate in the deliberations. We thank the British Council for sponsoring Professor Kogan's trip to South Africa. Valuable comments were made to drafts of the document by Hugh Amooore (University of Cape Town), Larry Pokpas (University of the Western Cape) and Daniel Makude (University of Dar es Salaam). Thanks are also due to those who shared experiences and debated a draft of this book at the March 2004 seminar. For a list of participants, see page 118.

A report on the seminar referred to in some sections of this book was written by Jaamiah Galant (<http://www.chet.org.za/papers/PIReport.pdf>). Sue Bulloch and Bridget Nichols organised the meetings and Trish Gibbon and Michelle Willmers took care of editing and production.